devolo GmbH has initiated debtor-in-possession restructuring proceedings. The Aachen-based company is aiming to reposition itself for the future. Business operations are continuing without any restrictions. The supply of goods is guaranteed.

Restructuring plan

By restructuring itself as a debtor in possession, devolo is taking an important step towards making its business fit for the future on a long-term basis. Over the coming months, the company will work with stakeholders and consultants to prepare a detailed restructuring plan that will include measures to restructure its business. The company will continue operating without restriction, the supply of goods is guaranteed and all services will be provided throughout the entire restructuring process.

Restructuring as a debtor in possession

Debtor-in-possession proceedings are a tried and tested instrument offered by German restructuring law. An insolvency monitor is appointed to oversee the restructuring process in the interests of creditors in such proceedings. Dr Ruth Rigol from restructuring law firm PLUTA Rechtsanwalts GmbH has been named provisional insolvency monitor in this instance. "Debtor-in-possession proceedings are an ideal instrument for repositioning the company. devolo can now take advantage of this opportunity over the coming months," said Dr Rigol.

The company will be supported during the proceedings by restructuring expert Mr Daniel Mann and his team from AMBG (Adiutor Management- und Beratungsgesellschaft mbH) based in Naumburg an der Saale as well as Dr Sebastian Braun (Reinhart Kober Großkinsky Braun Rechtsanwälte PartGmbH).
