restriction.” The FRIMO subsidiaries abroad (in Hungary, Poland, the USA, Mexico and Shanghai) are not directly affected by the insolvency proceedings now opened. They will be stabilised through appropriate measures in order to prevent them having to file for insolvency as far as possible. The FRIMO Group employs 1,200 people and is an international market and technology leader in its segment.

Mr Meyer, the provisional administrator, said, “We will do everything within our power to stabilise the business and will examine all options that may allow the group to be restructured and embark on a new future. We will also move quickly to look for an investor as part of a structured M&A process, in close coordination with the creditors’ committee.” Mr Meyer and his team are currently holding talks on site with the senior and extended management team and are negotiating with customers and stakeholders to get an idea of the overall economic and legal situation. Over the next few days, Mr Meyer will provide the roughly 500 members of staff at the German locations with detailed information on the steps taken so far and how they are affected as employees. bumpers. This equipment is supplied to automotive suppliers and car manufacturers in Germany and worldwide. The group has been pursuing a consistent crisis management and restructuring process since the beginning of the sales and supply crisis in the automotive industry, or even before. The crises are well known and range from the lockdowns in the coronavirus pandemic and the supply crisis in the automotive sector through to the current geopolitical crises that have entailed deliveries being blocked or even completely prevented. Added to these are drastic hikes in raw material and energy costs, which could not be passed on to customers. This situation has been exacerbated by the payment terms in use in the industry.

However, there has recently been a clear trend towards recovery in terms of order intake and sales, not least thanks to the growing e-mobility market. This resulted in the group generating around 160 million euros last year, having only achieved an operating performance of 145 million euros in the preceding year. Given that the level was more than 200 million euros in 2019, the group still has a lot of room for improvement in terms of capacity and possibilities. During its sluggish years of 2021 and 2022, the FRIMO Group lost a lot of liquidity that could not now be balanced by loan and equity providers in order to maintain its out-of-court restructuring process.

“Despite our consistent strategic orientation and favourable growth indicators, it is no longer possible for us to fully adhere to our business model,” stated Mr Siegfried Köhler, co-CEO Sales & Operations in the FRIMO Group.
