Since the investor is a competitor, this solution will mean that synergies can be realised. All the 21 jobs will be saved as a result of the takeover.

In the past few months, Mr Willrodt and his team have continued to manage the company. GABO:mi specialises in managing EU-funded collaborative research projects. As part of the individual research projects, GABO:mi, in their role as the project management partner, provides support with the application process, contract negotiations, financial management, reporting to the European Commission and public relations. The company is Germany's market leader in this area. Thus far, they have managed 39 research projects worth in total approximately 300 million euros in EU funds.
